REPORT IN WESTERLY PE CASE

State Pathologist Attributes Deaths to a Form of Typhoid—Guinea Pigs Fed With Crust Died in 72 Hours—Funeral of Henry L. Pitcher—Frederick Riffenburg's Injuries Serious—Death of Mrs. Charles B. Barker.

Over a month ago it was stated in The Bulletin in connection with the Westery poisoning cases, that four guinea pigs had died as a result of inoculation with the germ in the bacterial tests made by Dr. Bernstein, to determine the nature of the fatal germ, and that the germs were in the dough.

Dr. Henry Bernstein, state pathologist, transmitted to the state board of health Monday, an official preliminary report on the poison epidemic which resulted in four deaths and serious illness of over seventy persons from eating pie in a Westery restaurant. He says the deaths and sickness were due to a germ which is one of those that belong to the typhoid family.

Dr. Bernstein says that further tests with minimized animals are now in process for the purpose of making the diagnosis absolute as to which of the typhoid group of germs were present in the pie. The agency by means of which this disease-producing germ gained access to the food is a matter of conjecture at the present state. Dr. Bernstein says that the germs may have been carried by a person infected with them.

The examination thus far completed shows positively that the germs were in the dough or pie crust, or both. The milk, the pie shortening, and the pie filling were found to be free from the germ. It is pointed out by Dr. Bernstein that the conditions connected with this test go to make up an unusual case. He says that it is a very rare case where a germ is gathered from foodstuffs with which the patient ate, as it usually taken from the blood of the patient.

Four guinea pigs and one rabbit have thus far died as a result of inoculation with the germs in the bacterial tests made by Dr. Bernstein to determine the nature of the fatal germ.

The samples taken from which the examinations were made were submitted by the Pure Food and Drug Commission. The samples consisted of half pint jars partially filled with milk, dough, pie shortening, coconut custard pie filling and egg flour. The milk and dough were found to be free from the germ. The pie shortening was found to be free from the germ. The coconut custard pie filling and egg flour were found to be free from the germ. The germs were found in the dough and pie crust.

The two animals inoculated with the bacterial growth from pie mixture and dough died in 18 hours. Post-mortem examination revealed a marked swelling of the abdomen and well developed peritonitis. Cultures taken from the blood of the animals showed the presence of certain germs. The guinea pigs inoculated with germs derived from the pie shortening and egg flour survived. This result made it clear, the report states, that the germs came from the dough or the pie filling.

Special media, known as Endo plates, were then used, and showed a growth of bacteria, which later proved to be the disease producers. These germs, Dr. Bernstein says, were found to be small, short rod-shaped organisms. A pure culture of the germ, isolated from the pie mixture, was made and tests to determine its power of producing diseases in animals were started.

One rabbit and two guinea pigs were inoculated with the isolated culture. The guinea pigs died during the night. General peritonitis had developed in each animal. The organism recovered from the blood of the pigs contained the same germ characteristic as the one injected.

The rabbit died 72 hours after inoculation. Cultures taken from the rabbit were then subjected to tests and the germs found were identical with those injected. This shows, Dr. Bernstein says, that it was that particular germ that caused the death and that all three animals died from the same infection.

Through the courtesy of Dr. A. B. Briggs of Ashaway a specimen of blood taken from a patient who has suffered an attack of ptomaine poisoning after eating the pie was obtained. Although the blood was taken twenty-four hours after the appearance of the symptoms, the blood gave positive reaction against the isolated organism.

This proves, Dr. Bernstein says, that the patient was infected with a similar germ. Ten specimens of dried blood were received from Dr. Charles T. Swartz, which were taken from patients made ill from eating of the pie. Five of these showed complete reaction against the isolated germ, three produced partial reaction and the other two were negative.

It is worthy of note, the report states, that all other observations were similarly controlled and repeated.

"Gets-It" for Corns, SURE as Sunrise!

"Gets-It" Put Your Feet in Clover.

Any Corn, With "Gets-It" on it, is an Absolute "Goner." Yes, it's the simplest thing in the world to get rid of a corn—when you use "Gets-It," the world's greatest corn-killer. Really, it's almost a pleasure to have corns just to see them come off with "Gets-It." It just loosens the corn by the true, clean, easy, and then makes it come "clean off." 48 hours ends corns for keeps. It makes the use of tape, corn-squeezing bandages, irritating salves, knives, scissors and razors look ridiculous. Get rid of those corns quickly, surely, painlessly with "Gets-It." "Gets-It" is sold by all druggists, 25c a bottle, or sent direct by E. LAURENCE & Co. Chicago.

The Pulpit, a Seventh Day Baptist monthly, edited by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick of Westery, and especially adapted to the use of pastorless churches for use in public worship, and to home Sabbath keepers, and all other Seventh Day Baptists for Devotional reading. The September issue is really a Rhode Island number, as the sermons are furnished by ministers closely connected with the state.

A Lesson from the Tree, is by Rev. Ira Lee Cottrell, of Rockville, R. I., who from 1888 to 1890 supplied the Aquawampum pulpit.

The Big Brother, is the title of the sermon for September 11, by Rev. Albert Witter, of Second Hopkinton church. In June 1888, entered the machine shop of Cottrell and Babcock while still an apprentice ship. He graduated from Alfred University in 1892 and the summer in 1895. He was pastor of the First Hopkinton church.

Conformity versus Sympathy, is the title of the sermon for September 18, by Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, pastor of the Pawtucket Seventh Day Baptist church.

Rev. Lucius Drury, pastor emeritus of the Third Baptist church in North Stonington, officiated at the funeral of Henry L. Pitcher, who was killed by being struck by a freight train near the West Street bridge, early Friday morning.

The funeral service was held at the home of his sister, Mrs. Frederick Schwenk, in West street, Friday afternoon, a large number of relatives and friends being in attendance. There were beautiful floral tributes. Burial was in Union cemetery, North Stonington. The bearers were John Ingham, T. Edwin Brown, Frederick K. Schwenk, J. Clifford Steadman and Thomas L. Peabody.

It was necessary to remove the lacerated portion of the scalp to close the wound and in addition he received five severe cuts and lacerations about the head, face, the upper part of one arm and the lower part of a leg.

STONINGTON

R. A. Business Meeting—Three Would Join Nina Council—Latest in Hart-Brown Case.

Notices have been posted at landing places on the borders of the harbor, announcing that there is to be strict enforcement of the laws relating to the taking of lobsters, which refers in the main to lobsters that are not of the legal length as defined by law. The lobstermen here, and hereabouts, had supposed that the law had been enforced in this vicinity ever since its enactment, as there have been several arrests and prosecutions for violations. Therefore, these posted warnings are taken as a very broad hint to the lobstermen to be alert, lest a short lobster should happen to be taken into the company of those of regulation size.
